ANTONINA

OASIS LIGHTING COLLECTION

design by Federico Peri

Antonina is a family of lamps in which the clearly contemporary style becomes a form of aesthetic expression. The central element of the Federico Peri design is the structure that winds spirally around the column, like the Column of Marcus Aurelius in Rome, which is also known as the “Antonina” column in Italian – hence the name of the collection.

The Antonina family of lamps was engendered by the desire to marry contemporary taste with a unique and original design that is enhanced by the mixture of different materials such as walnut, bronze-effect metal and glass that are combined together with skilled craftsmanship.

The Antonina family consists of standard lamps with or without a lighting appendage, wall lamps and table lamps of different sizes. They are all designer products that are defined in space as true works of art, which have distinctive features to match any type of setting.

The metal structure with a bronze finish acts as a rest for standard and table lamps, as if it were a slender pedestal from which the contrasting solid wooden column emerges. The latter supports the opal glass containing the LED light that faces upwards in the standard and wall lamp versions and in one of the table lamp versions or downwards in the second table lamp version.

The environment and reading version has dual lights owing to the presence of a spotlight secured to the lamp by a leather belt, a detail reflecting great craftsmanship.

The three materials – metal, wood and glass – that make up the lamp structure define its simplicity and material elegance, a perfect synthesis of tradition and innovation, a characteristic of Oasis that combines centuries of history with the evolution of taste.

Like any Federico Peri creation, also Antonina reinterprets culture and tradition, in a continuous contemporary reflection. It is an essential and transverse element that lightens different environments with simplicity and poetry.

Federico Peri

Since 2011, Federico Peri is a Milan based interior & product design studio. The projects range from retail concept, commercial spaces, private homes to furniture design.

The design process is driven by a consistent philosophical approach by which the studio creates concept that are intimately connected to their function and individual context.

Working with authentic materials, aged, that tell a story of craftsmanship isn't simply a standard of beauty but represent a real design-belief by which the studio starts any kind of project, whether it is furniture, installation or interior.

OASIS COMPANY

Oasis is an Italian company specialising in the manufacture of luxury furniture and furnishings, all completely handmade in Italy. A fourth generation family-owned company, Oasis was founded in 1908 in San Giovanni di Polcenigo (Pordenone) where Floriano Quaia opened a carpentry workshop.

In 1945 Bernardo Quaia, Floriano's son, initiated the production of furniture items and in 1972, the third generation of the Quaia family – Bernardo's children - created the Arredamenti Quaia company, which in 1980 participated in the Salone del Mobile, Milan for the very first time.

The Oasis brand made its debut in 1984, at first to shine a spotlight on the bathroom collections. As such the company grew and prospered and at the beginning of this century became active in export, thanks to the efforts of the fourth generation of the family, sisters Federica and Francesca and brother Lorenzo. In 2012, the company relaunched its Home furniture line and today Oasis offers a wide range of products under one label, thereby creating a complete design package of Luxury furniture and furnishings and offering solutions for living room and bedroom environments, as well as stylish collections for bathrooms. Nowadays, its products are exported to more than 25 countries, among them Russia, Ukraine, France, Switzerland, Belgium, the UK and Germany.

In addition to an extensive portfolio of furniture collections for the Home and Bathroom, Oasis has a Contract division which focuses on the manufacture of bespoke furniture and interior design solutions for the Hospitality, Residential and Commercial sectors.
